Matthew 6:24 (KJV)

```
D                   G
No man can serve two masters:
           D                                  A
for either he will hate the one, and love the other;
           D                     G
or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other.
       D        A       D
Ye cannot serve God and mammon.

D                        G
One Master Maximum - you can't serve any more
    D                             A
For two is one too many - Matthew 6, verse 24
           D                           G
You cannot serve God and Money – or God and anything
               D                      A      D
If you want to serve the Lord - it’s all or nothing

D                   G
No man can serve two masters:
           D                                  A
for either he will hate the one, and love the other;
           D                     G
or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other.
       D        A       D         G   D A D
Ye cannot serve God and mammon.
